

U.S. Foreign Policy in Turbulent Times

Guest Lecture Series

Summer Term 2025

Prof. Lora Anne Viola

- 30.04. Europe Can Manage, but not Avoid, Defense Industrial Dependence
- Jonathan Caverley
Massachusetts Institute of Technology
U.S. Naval War College
-
- 07.05. What's Next for European Strategy?
- Gideon Rose
American Academy
Council on Foreign Relations
-
- 14.05. Frozen Assets: Greenland, Canada, and Trump's Foreign Policy
- Desh Girod
Georgetown University
-
- 21.05. Navigating Contradiction: Europe in an Open-Closed World
- Nathalie Tocci
Istituto Affari Internazionali
-
- 28.05. Can the U.S. and Canada Ever Be Friends? Inequality, Solidarity, and Political Friendship
- Catherine Lu
McGill University
-
- 04.06. The Foreign Policy of the Right-Wing Counterrevolution
- Hilde Restad
Oslo Nye University College
-

- 11.06. Trump 2.0: Strategy or Chaos?
- Peter Trubowitz
London School of Economics
-
- 18.06. The New Right Foreign Policies
- Rachel Tausendfreund
German Council on Foreign Relations
-
- 25.06. Rising Powers and International Order in the Age of Trump
- Rohan Mukherjee
London School of Economics
-
- 02.07. Making Feminist Sense (?) of U.S. Foreign Policy
- Aditi Mukund
Global Public Policy Institute
Humboldt Foundation
-
- 09.07. What Determines a War's End? Insights from the War in Ukraine
- Andreas Heinemann-Grüder
Universität Bonn
-

Wednesdays

4 - 6 pm in R340

At the John F. Kennedy Institute
Lansstraße 7-9, 14195 Berlin