2 Positions as Student Assistants (Tutors) (41 hrs/month) for 6 months
ID: UNA-B Tutorship Economics

Application Deadline: December 26, 2022
Start of employment: April 1, 2023

Tasks:
- Conducting the tutorial (in English) that accompanies the course Understanding North America B, focus on Economics
- Administration of the online platform Blackboard
- Course preparation: research and acquisition of literature
- Preliminary corrections of handed in essays and assignments (everything will be handed in in English, and might partly be handwritten)
- Preparation and coordination of the final exam through the E-Examination center

Applicants should fulfill the following:
- The tutorial requires fundamental knowledge of economics and the ability to teach it in English
- Excellent English skills, both written and spoken, in order to conduct the tutorial
- Strong organization skills for the coordination of the tutorials with the tutors from the other departments and the communication between students and instructors
- The ability to work in a team
- The ability to work independently
- Good research skills and good knowledge of the library
- Students studying in MA North America Studies (with a BA in North American Studies) or students studying BA North American Studies who have completed UNA, the orientation module in economics and the mandatory studies abroad
- Students who have a BA in Economics

More Information

Please send your full application indicating the ID as one pdf document via E-Mail to Prof. Max Steinhardt: economics@jfki-fu-berlin.de or via mail to

Freie Universität Berlin
John-F.-Kennedy-Institut
Wirtschaft
Herrn Prof. Max Steinhardt
Lansstr. 7-9

14195 Berlin

By sending your application as a pdf, you are consenting to the fact that your data will be processed and saved electronically.

Please be aware that the FU Berlin is not liable for the safety of your personal data if these are sent electronically and not secured.